

Thank you for participating in our study, Assessing Healthcare Provider Understanding of Medical Students' Access to Healthcare in the Context of Structural Competency and Social Determinants of Health!

We are excited to hear your perspective on healthcare access and inclusivity as healthcare providers at the Midwestern University Multispecialty Clinic. This survey will take approximately 15-20 minutes.

This study involves answering open-ended survey questions about your experiences with providing healthcare to Midwestern University medical students during your time as a healthcare provider at the Midwestern University Multispecialty Clinic and anything you may feel has impacted this access. Please feel free to share as much of your perspective as you would like as you go through these questions.

Your answers will be deidentified and will not be linked to you or discussed directly with the institution, faculty, or staff at Midwestern. By filling out this form you consent to the use of your deidentified answers for any further publications or presentations arising from this work.

There is a possibility that based on your answers we would like to follow up with a short interview at a later date, and you will be contacted by email regarding this request. You are not required to consent to an interview and filling out this survey does not necessitate participation in a later interview.

Thank you very much!

Have you appreciated challenges in medical students' access to healthcare services?

Yes/No

If yes, as a healthcare provider, what challenges have you appreciated in medical student access to healthcare?

From your perspective, has any aspect of your identity affected the care you have provided as a healthcare provider? If so, please explain how or in what way.

Do you feel that medical students have a different experience or are treated differently when seeking care? Please elaborate.

Have you ever noticed a medical student delaying or avoiding seeking care due to their student status? If so, why?

Do you feel as though medical students are more or less likely to seek care because of their student status? If so, why?

Are there any other factors that you feel have contributed to medical students' ability to access medical care?

Optional Question: Please share an experience where institutional policies/practices may have positively or negatively influenced your ability to provide healthcare or quality of healthcare provided. Feel free to share a story that relates to any of your answers to previous survey questions.
