Online Resource 1

Strong meiofaunal differentiation despite weak links to vegetation patch structure in emerging dunes

Landscape Ecology

Paul M.J. Berghuis[a,b], Hannah ter Horst[c], Jan-Niklas Macher[c,d]*

Affiliations:

a: Department of Coastal Systems, Royal Netherlands Institute for Sea Research, Den Burg, The Netherlands

b: Copernicus Institute of Sustainable Development, Utrecht University, Utrecht, The Netherlands

c: Naturalis Biodiversity Center, Leiden, The Netherlands

d: Department of Environmental Biology, Institute of Environmental Sciences (CML), Leiden University, Leiden, The Netherlands

*Corresponding Author. Email: jan.macher@naturalis.nl

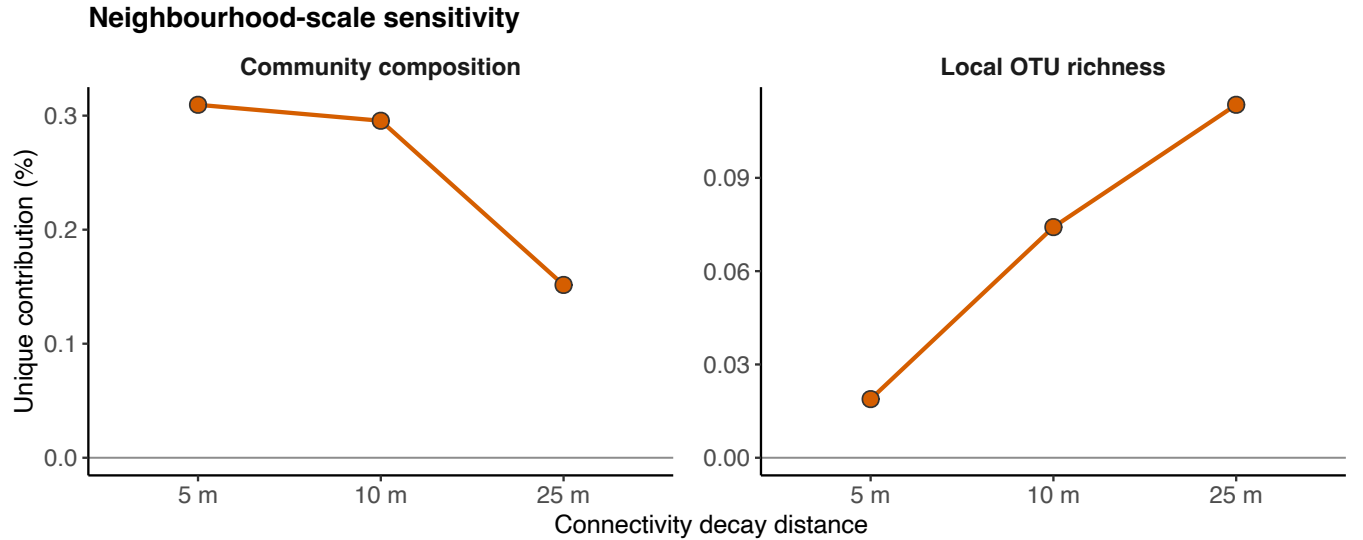

Fig. S1 Connectivity-scale sensitivity of the unique contribution of structural connectivity to community composition and local OTU richness. Connectivity was calculated using decay distances of 5, 10 and 25 m while all other predictor blocks were kept unchanged.