Study Short Title	Allied Health Research & Translation Social Network Study (HREC 2019.244)
Research Team	Danielle Hitch, David Snowdon, Emma Macdonald, Jo-Anne Pinson, Marnie Graco, Olivia King, Rosalie Boyce, Renee Clapham, Amy Dennett, Owen Howlett, Marlena Klaic, Rita Kinsella, Michal Schneider

Local Lead Investigator	Danielle Hitch

You are invited to take part in this research study on the professional network of allied health practitioners. This introduction page tells you about the study and what is involved to help you decide if you want to take part. Please read this information and ask questions about anything that you don't understand or that you want to know more about. Before deciding whether to take part, you might want to talk about it with a friend or co-worker.

What is the purpose of this study? We want to describe the connections that allied health professionals have with others in the areas of research and practice change. We are interested in what this network looks like, and whether it changes over time. In this study, research is defined as activities where the primary purpose is to generate or expand on existing evidence bases or apply existing knowledge in a novel way. These activities may involve the application of quantitative, qualitative, mixed or creative methods, and always require review by a research ethics board or committee before proceeding. In contrast, practice change is defined as activities where the primary purpose is to monitor or improve the quality of services. These activities may also be known as knowledge translation, implementation, quality assurance, quality improvement, audit, benchmarking, peer review or other less formal methods of changing practice. Practice change activities may or may not require review by an ethics or oversight committee before proceeding.

Why am I invited to participate in this study? You work at Western Health and have an allied health background or work in an allied health clinical role. You are also within the remit of your health service's Allied Health Research and Translation Lead.

What does this study involve? We are asking you to do a survey (online or on paper). The survey takes approximately 10 minutes to do. We will not pay you for participating in the study. The survey asks about who is in your network, how often you connect with each network member and a little about them. The survey also asks a little about you.

What are the possible benefits? You are unlikely to receive any personal benefit from your participation into this study. However, your responses may help inform future local and state initiatives around allied health research and research translation. For example, developing formal collaboration agreements with organizations outside your health service or developing new connections with people (inside or outside your health service).

What are the possible risks? It is unlikely that there will be any risk to you if you decide to take part in this study. Apart from some basic information about you (such as your age, where you work), no sensitive information about you will be recorded. Other than the time it takes to complete the survey, you will not be inconvenienced as a result of this study. While names and identifying information are collected as part of this study, your responses will be de-identified once they are collected, and no identifiable information will be available to members of the research team outside of your health service.

Do I have to take part in this study? Taking part in any study is voluntary. Your decision to take part, or take part and then withdraw from the study, will not affect your relationship with the health service or with the researchers. By submitting the survey, you are telling us that you understand the information on this page, consent to take part in the research project and consent to be involved in the procedures described. If you submit a survey and subsequently decide to withdraw, we will be able to remove your responses up to the point when this information is de-identified. You have up until 31st July 2020 to inform the local lead investigator that you want to withdraw your data, after which it will no longer be possible to remove your responses.

What happens to my information? Information with identifying details will be kept at Western Health in a password protected electronic format on the health service's restricted access server or in a secure locked cabinet. This information will only be available to the local principle investigator and will be permanently destroyed after 5 years. A de-identified version of the responses from all participants at Western Health will be kept on the Western Health server in a password protected electronic format, which will only be accessible by members of the research team. This information will also be permanently destroyed after 5 years. All information will be stored in such a way that identifying details (such as name / service details) will not be kept in the same place as the de-identified versions of the responses. The information you provide may be used to inform other research projects, provided they have ethical approval. Results from this study will be published and presented in a variety of forums. Information will be presented in such a way that you cannot be identified, and results will only be reported as summary, aggregate findings.

Who is doing this study? This study is being done through a collaboration between 12 Victorian Health Services: Western Health, Barwon Health, Goulburn Valley Health, Melbourne Health, Bendigo Health, Monash Health, Eastern Health, Peninsula Health, Ballarat Health, Alfred Health, St. Vincents Health, and South West Healthcare, The study is unfunded. The ethical aspects of this research project have been approved by Melbourne Health Human Research Ethics Committee [2019.244], and Western Health has also approved the study.

How can I know more about this study? For more information on this study, please contact: Danielle Hitch on 0468 574 735 or Danielle.Hitch@wh.org.au .

Complaints. For matters relating to research at the site at which you are participating, and if you have any complaints about any aspect of the project, the way it is being conducted or any questions about being a research participant in general, then the details of the local site complaints person are:
