

Sero-epidemiology and risk factor investigation for exposure to Japanese encephalitis virus in swine populations reared in climatically diverse regions of India

Journal name: Tropical Animal Health and Production

Akash Balasaheb Mote^a, Balbir B. Singh^b, Deepa Mehta^a, Sagar M. Patel^a, M Dhanalakshmi^c, M. Suman Kumar^a, K. N. Bhilegaonkar^a, Himani Dhanze^{a*}, ^aDivision of Veterinary Public Health, ICAR – Indian Veterinary Research Institute, Uttar Pradesh, India.

^bCentre for One Health, Guru Angad Dev Veterinary & Animal Sciences University, Punjab, India

^cVeterinary College and Research Institute, Orathanadu, Tamil Nadu Veterinary and Animal Sciences University, Chennai, India.

*Corresponding author. Tel.: +919457958571

E-mail address: hdhanze@yahoo.co.in

Supplementary file S5

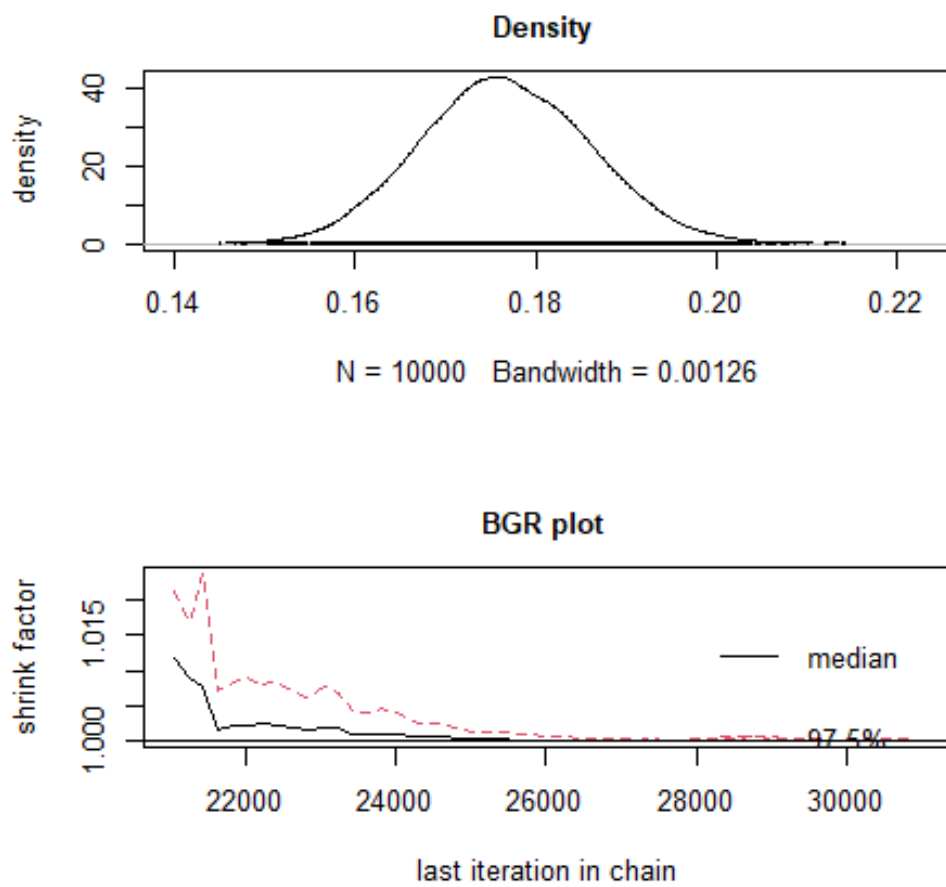

Fig. S1 Density plot and BGR plot for true prevalence results. The plots were generated and analysed for each true prevalence estimate (overall, state and district levels). Here, plots for overall true prevalence alone are shown.